Dear colleagues, members and friends,

As the COVID 19 challenge continues to affect us all and we do the best we can to prevent the spread of the pandemic in our areas of responsibility and private lives, I am glad to introduce ICPA’s first Business Plan which will highlight our activities and our future plans. I am also writing to thank you for your continued support as an ICPA member which is now more important than ever.

The ICPA Executive Committee and Executive Team had a very productive planning week in our Brussels’ office last February. The team has now develop this Business Plan starting on 1 July with many actions aimed towards strengthening our focus on membership services, improved engagement with members and communication as well as the introduction of a new digital infrastructure. Members have always been and will be in the future the backbone of ICPA and the Board and Executive Team want to refresh our services for members.

This has of course become even more important in the context of COVID 19.

We unfortunately had to cancel our 2020 conference but will meet again in 2021 in Hong Kong. This is reason for optimism. We will meet in person again, share good practice and just enjoy the opportunity to learn and reflect; that is what I am certainly looking forward to.

Peter Severin
ICPA President

- Implement an entirely new digital infrastructure and online engagement platform
- Create a new membership tier and associated benefits exclusively for the non-governmental sector
- Seek to create a unique network for encouraging cross-collaboration with the non-governmental sector
- Strengthen our Chapters to support sustainable regional engagement and cooperation
- Explore a Centre for Excellence concept for enhancing knowledge-sharing and exchange of good practice
As a not-for-profit association, ICPA is funded through contributions and support of individuals, public sector services, NGOs, and corporations through membership, sponsorship and event attendance.

This support sustains our activities and helps us to continue providing a strong, professional platform for knowledge exchange.

Surplus funds are committed to the ICPA Reinvestment Fund for generating value to our membership and to corrections globally.

ICPA receives in-kind contributions of staff time (Executive Director position) courtesy of Correctional Service Canada and further support through volunteers who assist in our activities and projects. The ICPA Board of Directors also commit their personal time pro-bono to advancing the organisation and helping it to achieve its mission.

The sustainability of ICPA relies mainly on its membership, sponsorship and conferences. As a result of the coronavirus pandemic, where social distancing measures are imposed combined with travel restrictions, this has greatly impacted on both society and economy, and it also impacted the Association. For the first time in ICPA’s history, our organisation will not hold the Annual Conference in 2020, which will affect income. At this moment, there is no certainty as to how this situation will continue to affect our Association.

In light of this, we recognize that some restructuring is required at the foundational level of the Association. It is proposed to undertake a concerted process of consolidation, re-organisation and re-engagement. This is the foundation of this Business Plan 2020-2022 to “Consolidate, Organise and Engage”.

To ensure the sustainability of ICPA and contribute to our goal of advancing professional corrections across the globe, engagement is a vital aspect of how we attract and retain members and in doing so our focus on the development of new strategies and diversification of our products and services are a necessity to drive up our value proposition to members and potential members alike. ICPA is demonstrating agility by planning other virtual events to offer services to members. It is also investing in a new digital solution to become more efficient and effective. In this period of consolidation, we will work to implement a solid digital infrastructure which supports the ever-growing reliance for online communications and exchange.

Budget 2020-21

ICPA operates on a fiscal year period of 1 July to 30 June.

In recent years, ICPA completed the fiscal year with a balanced budget. In the coming year, ICPA will need to use part of the reserve funds due to the cancellation of the annual conference. In addition to the approved annual budget, ICPA will be investing in community engagement projects.

For the year 2020-2021, the Association budget is as follows:
